In the small town of Shadyside, Ohio, there lived a mad scientist named Dr. Victor Frankenstein. Dr. Frankenstein was obsessed with the idea of creating life from death. He spent years working on his experiments, and finally, he succeeded in bringing a dog back to life.

The dog, which Dr. Frankenstein named Sparky, was a hideous creature. It was made up of parts from different animals, and it had a strange, unnatural look about it. Sparky was also very aggressive, and he soon began to terrorize the people of Shadyside.

A group of teenagers, led by a brave girl named Annie, decided to take matters into their own hands. They tracked down Dr. Frankenstein and confronted him about his creation. Dr. Frankenstein refused to listen to them, and he continued to experiment on Sparky.

The teenagers knew that they had to stop Dr. Frankenstein, so they decided to destroy Sparky. They lured the dog into a trap and then set it on fire. Sparky was finally destroyed, and the people of Shadyside were safe once again.
