By A.P.J. Abdul Kalam and Srijan Pal Singh

India is a nation on the rise. With a population of over 1.3 billion people, India is the world's second most populous country. It is also one of the world's fastest growing economies. India's GDP is expected to grow by 7.5% in 2018, which is faster than the global average of 3.9%.

India's rise is due to a number of factors, including its large and young population, its growing middle class, and its increasing investment in education and infrastructure. However, India still faces a number of challenges, including poverty, inequality, and environmental degradation.

In their book, In Service of Emergent India, former President A.P.J. Abdul Kalam and Srijan Pal Singh offer a roadmap for India's future. They argue that India has the potential to become a global superpower, but only if it can overcome its challenges and seize its opportunities.
